S. S. S. CURES MALARIAL POISON

Nature should be assisted to throw off impurities of the blood. Nothing does it so well, so promptly, or so safely as Swift's Specific.

LIFE HAD NO CHARMS.

For three years I was troubled with malarial poison, which caused my appetite to fail, and I was greatly reduced in flesh, and life lost all its charms. I tried mercurial and potash remedies, but to no effect. I could get no relief. I then decided to try S. S. S. A few bottles of this wonderful medicine made a complete and permanent cure, and I now enjoy better health than ever.

A SUICIDE'S LAST MOMENTS.

Nerved by Absinthe to the Point of Injecting the Fatal Drug.

As to the question of the suicidal tendencies of absinthe drinking, there is a striking instance in one of Edgar Saltus' novels—"Mr. Incoul's Misadventure." At least the musings and soliloquy during which suicide was determined upon was accompanied by a free indulgence in the dangerous beverage. Lennox Leigh is the young man who takes his own life as the only seemly end to a charge of cheating at cards, of which he is innocent, but which he cannot refute. The charge is made by his vindictive enemy, Mr. Incoul. The vivid portrayal of the condition of mind produced by the absinthe is remarkable. "On reaching his room," says the author, "he put his purchases (morphine intended for suicide) on a table, poured out a glass of absinthe, lighted a cigarette and threw himself down on a lounge. For awhile his thoughts roamed among the episodes of the day, but gradually they drifted into less personal currents.

"He began to think of the early legions of Charon, the god renouncing his 'immortality;' of the Hyperborean, the fabled people, famous for their fidelity, who voluntarily threw themselves into the sea; of Juno bringing death to Biton and Cleobis as the highest recompense of their piety; of Agamedes and Trophonius praying Apollo for whatever gift he deemed most advantageous, and in answer to the prayer receiving eternal sleep. He remembered how Plato had preached to the happiest people in the world the blessedness of ceaseless sleep; how the Buddha, teaching that life was but a right to suffer, had found for the recalcitrant no greater menace than that of an existence renewed through kalpas of time.

"He mixed himself another glass of absinthe, holding the caraffe high in the air, watching the thin stream of water coalesce with the green drug and turn with it into an opalescent milk. The soliloquy was renewed: After what has happened there is nothing left. I might change my name. I might go to Brazil or Australia, but with what object? I could not get away from myself. And yet life is pleasant; ill spent as mine has been, many times have I found it grateful. After all, it is not life that is short; it is youth. When that goes, as mine seems to have gone, outside of solitude there is little charm in anything, and what is death but isolation the most perfect and impenetrable that nature has devised? And whether that isolation came to me tonight or decades hence, what matters it?

"He poured out more absinthe and put the bottle down empty. Before drinking he undid the package which he had bought from the chemist. First he took from it a box about three inches long. It was a tiny syringe and with it two little instruments. One of these he adjusted in the projecting tube and with his finger felt carefully the point. He threw off his coat and rolled up his sleeve. From the phial he filled the syringe and with the point pricked the bare arm and sent the liquid spurting into the flesh. Three times he did this. He reached for the absinthe and left it untasted. The lights turned pale and glowed less vividly, as though veils were being drawn between him and them. But still the languor continued, sweeter even, and more enveloping, till from sweetness it was almost pain. The room grew darker, the colors waned, the lights behind the falling veils sank thin, fading one by one; a single spark lingered; it wavered a moment and vanished into night."

Leigh had ended his life by his own act in a condition to which large quantities of absinthe contributed.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

How Monkeys Treat a Sick One.

Monkeys, with some notable exceptions, are some degrees worse than savage men in their treatment of the sick. On the new Jumna canal at Delhi monkeys swarm in the trees on the banks and treat their sick comrades in true monkey fashion. The colony by the canal being overcrowded and as a consequence unhealthy, did, and probably does still, suffer from various unpleasant diseases. When one monkey is so obviously unwell as to offend the feelings of the rest a few of the larger monkeys watch it and taking a favorable opportunity knock it into the canal. If it is not drowned at once the sick monkey is pitched in again after it regains the trees, and either drowned or forced to keep aloof from the flock.—London Spectator.

Cleared by Opening a Grave.

A gentleman who had lived for a considerable time out of the country died apparently a few days after his return. It was alleged that his decease had followed suspiciously near the eating of a pudding prepared by his stepmother. She was hence arrested and charged with his murder. The grave was opened for the purpose of making an analysis of the contents of the man's stomach. It was then discovered that the man had turned completely over in his coffin and was lying on his face. He had been buried alive. This evidence of the cause of death was of course conclusive, and the woman was released.—Yankee Blade.

THE BIG MAN IN A LITTLE TOWN.

The czar of all the Russias is declared to be an autocrat,
Who as a real harsh monarch has his ruling business down quite pat;
And there are other mighty men who govern with an iron hand,
And who insist on being praised by every subject in the land.
But king nor emperor nor czar nor any other potentate,
It matters not how vast his realm, how glorious his pomp and state;
It matters not how many gems may sparkle in his royal crown,
Is half so great a being as the big man in a little town.
The big man in a little town may never boast a royal name,
Nor noble blood, but what of that? Why should he care from whence he came,
Since all the earth is his to sell or trade or give away or rent?
No wonder that this hollow life to him seems rounded with content.
All classes and all ages know that he is wonderfully wise,
And people come from far away to seek his valuable advice.
'Tis said that in the "over there" they save for him the brightest crown,
For nothing else would satisfy the big man from a little town.
—Chicago Times.

The Wagon of the Canadian Half Breed.

By preference and from lack of other timber the half breed of the northwestern plains constructs his cart of poplar, the characteristic vehicle for all purposes in summer and his sledge or jumper for winter use. With his ax, an auger and his buffalo knife for tools, in a short time he builds a light, stout cart singularly well adapted to his circumstances. As ordinarily constructed it contains, like the harness with which it is attached to the draft animal, not a particle of iron. The wheels are well framed together and are about five feet in diameter. The spokes are well driven into the nave, the pieces of the felly are doweled together and the structure dishes after the most approved fashion.

The pony or the bullock which is to supply the motive power is harnessed between two large, light shafts, and upon the axle of the cart a light framework is built to contain the packages which are to form the load. It is lined and floored with thin boards wrought out of trees with the ax, or, more recently, the whip saw. On such a cart a load of 800 pounds can be carried with safety, as its strength is such that repairs are rarely necessary.—C. A. Kenaston in Century

No Maze for the Indian.

I happened to be in a launch on the river a few days ago with some red Indians, who were attired after their habit—in paint and feathers. As we passed along, many of those in boats and on the shore howled and yelled. The Indians did not take the slightest notice, but I could not help thinking that if an Englishman visited them on their native plains they would have received him more civilly.

We got out at Hampton Court, and as I had often heard of the unerring sagacity of Indians in following up a track in a forest I thought that I would test it, and so I put them in the middle of the maze. They walked out of it without a moment's hesitation, walking one behind the other as though it had been no maze, but only a garden path.—London Truth

People Who Commit Suicide.

Persons quite young or very old rarely commit suicide. Those who decide that life is not worth living are generally in that stage of existence known as "the prime of life." Women from eighteen to twenty-five and men from twenty one to forty years of age are the most likely to come to the conclusion that they have nothing to live for and to hasten their departure from a world that affords them more sorrow than joy, more misery than happiness.

Poverty and suffering from want or disease do not appear to be the causes of many suicides. Comparatively few suicides are committed in poorhouses or in charity hospitals. They are much more frequent in fine hotels and elegant private houses.—Chicago Journal.

Marriage in the Isles of Greece.

In Kaso, one of the most southern islands of Greece, the parents upon both sides take upon themselves all the responsibilities of courtship and marriage. Courtship, as we understand it, is not in any way permitted to the betrothed couple. No moonlight walks or tete a tetes are allowed. Such a course would be deemed highly reprehensible, and all wooing, if there be any, must take place in the presence of the elders; but there is no great time for repining at these decrees of custom, for the marriage follows the offer as quickly as may be.—E. M. Edmonds in Eastern and Western Review.

The Widow Bird.

Mrs. Ferdinand Clayton, of Marion, Ind., owns a peculiar bird brought to this country seven years ago from Africa. It has beautiful plumage, is not a songster, and is noted for its combative and vindictive disposition. It is called the "crane" or "widow bird."

The Birthplace of Michabou.

The Indians held Mackinac island in great veneration because tradition credited it with being the birthplace of Michabou, the Indian god of waters.—Rochester Union and Advertiser.

Visited by His Friend's Ghost.

When attending school in Germany I had a roommate who was a firm believer in spooks. I was a scoffer, and he sometimes became quite vexed at me. One day he declared that if he died before I did he would haunt me until I became convinced against my will. I begged him to do so, and made a special request that he would appear to me at the earliest possible moment after death. Three years ago I got a letter from him saying that he was dying of consumption, and bidding me watch out for his wraith.

He was still in Germany. Shortly afterward I went on a business trip to Milwaukee. I hurried up to my room in the hotel one evening to write some letters. The moon streamed in through the open window, and on the edge of the bed sat my old schoolmate. He looked just as he did when we parted in Germany. I rushed forward with a glad exclamation of surprise, but he waved me back. I spoke to him, but he only smiled. I lit the gas, but when I turned again he was gone.

Then our strange compact occurred to me. I examined the bed where he had sat, but there was no impression. I looked at my watch and made a note of the hour and date. In about three weeks I received a letter notifying me of his death. I compared it with my notes and found that by allowing for the difference in time the spirit had appeared to me immediately after the body had drawn its last breath.—Interview in St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

What the Boys Don't Know.

Professor Roberts, of the Cornell experimental station, was one of the speakers at the seventh annual meeting of the New Hampshire state board of agriculture, at Hampton, N. H., and incidentally said:

Many boys come from the farm to Cornell who do not know a ripsaw from a crosscut, and to whom the sharpening of a saw or auger is as the dead languages. Think of it! We are compelled to keep a shop in which to teach farm boys in the courses of agriculture how to drive nails, saw boards, lay out braces, get the pitch of roofs, and many other simple and necessary mechanical operations of a well conducted homestead. All this the boys should get before they come to college, because only one out of every 300 of the farmers' children ever get to college, so if they get this training it must be secured at the primary and secondary schools.'

Thousands of farm boys who are going back to the farms are studying French, astronomy, chemistry and possibly Latin in the academies, who are wholly ignorant of the botanical structure or characteristics of the corn plant, of the root habit, of how it feeds and of how best to cultivate it.—New York Times.

The Moon and Its Lack of Atmosphere.

It is by indirect methods of observation that scientists learn of the absence of atmosphere in the moon. There are various arguments that can be adduced, but the most conclusive is that obtained on the occurrence of what is called the occultation of a star. It sometimes happens that the moon comes directly between the earth and a star, and the temporary extinction of the latter is an occultation. We can observe the movement when it takes place, and the suddenness of the extinction of the star is extremely remarkable. If the moon had a copious atmosphere, the gradual interposition of this would produce a gradual extinction of the star, and not the sudden phenomenon usually observed.

This absence of air and water from the moon explains the peculiar and weird ruggedness of the lunar scenery. We know that on the earth the action of the wind and of rain, of frost and of snow is constantly tending to wear down our mountains and reduce their hard outlines, but no such agents are at work upon the moon.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Useless Shaving.

Southey, in that delightful storehouse of quaint and useless information called "The Doctor"—from which so many modern essayists have helped themselves without acknowledgment—makes a computation to prove that if a man who regularly shaves lives until he has seen threescore years and ten he will find that he has wasted upon his face as much time as would suffice for the acquisition of seven languages. A hotel proprietor advertised yesterday for a porter able to speak English, French and German, and who must be "clean shaved."

Why this continual resort to the razor should be insisted on is one of the mysteries of the hotel business, and if Southey's calculation be right must prove a serious drawback to the successful applicant acquiring any more languages or even keeping up a good style in those he already possesses.—London Telegraph.

A Good Way to Pack Flowers.

It will not do to wet cut flowers themselves. This causes them to wilt easily. The best way, or one of the best, is to wrap the stems in wet moss and cover the flowers with waxed paper, packing the flowers closely. Violets, acacias and chrysanthemums have in this way been successfully sent to Berlin and New York.—San Francisco Examiner.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Don't You Know

that you can secure almost immediate relief from Indigestion, and that uncomfortable fullness after meals, by simply taking a dose of Simmons Liver Regulator? Some people think that because it is called Liver Regulator it has nothing to do with Indigestion and the like. It is the inaction of the Liver that causes Indigestion, and that fullness; also Constipation, and those Bilious Headaches. Millions have been made to understand this and have been cured from these troubles by Simmons Liver Regulator—a medicine unfailing and purely vegetable.

From Rev. M. B. Wharton, Baltimore, Md

"It affords me pleasure to add my testimony to the great virtues of Simmons Liver Regulator. I have had experience with it, as occasion demanded, for many years, and regard it as the greatest medicine of the times. So good a medicine deserves universal commendation.

SONOMA, SEPTEMBER 24, 1892.

M. H. GRANICE - - - - - - - - - - - EDITOR

At last the wine-makers have something to smile over, as prices have advanced materially. Several sales have been made at prices ranging from 14 to 15 cents net. We are credibly informed that one was made a few days ago by a wine-maker residing near Bello station for 15 cents per gallon, delivered on board the cars and nearly all the purchase price paid down, which is better than 16 cents on time. We may look for a few sales to be made now that the prices have reached a good 15 cents per gallon, but not many, as nearly all our wine-growers long ago forsaw the shortage of the coming crop and have arranged to keep their wine on hand until a fair price is forthcoming. It is certainly beyond a shadow of a doubt, that the day is near at hand when the product of the vine will again bring a price which will place Napa valley and. St Helena where they were ten years ago.

What will grapes be per ton this year? This is the question we hear asked by all parties interested. We are reliably informed that offers of $15 and $16 per ton have been made for valley grapes to several parties, and we have heard that the price has been refused. The above information is authentic. We also heard that one party was offered $20 per ton for his, which he has accepted and also contracted his next year's crop at the same price. This last does not, however, come to us as authentic, but only as street talk. While it is possible, yet hardly probable, that grapes will bring $20 per ton, we would advise our producers not to contract too early, as nothing can occur to make the price lower and everything is in favor of a constant increase to the day crushing begins. If offers of $15 and $16 per ton are made now in two weeks the price will be better.—St. Helena Star.

The Other Side of the Case.

ED. INDEX-TRIBUNE:

In your issue of September 17th last, concerning the case of Baletti et als. vs. Sparks et als. you classify the verdict given for the defendants as a "verdict of a stupid jury."

All in Sonoma who know the facts know that it was a correct verdict. The jury was intelligent and unbiased.

Immediately after the examination of L. Quartaroli and his father-in-law Baletti and his brother R. Quartaroli, the whole transaction was so clear that the Judge and jury wondered why the defendant Sparks put in any defense at all, as it was a clear case, but the defendants did so in order to show up the whole deal, and they did it, and no other verdict could have been given by an intelligent jury. The jury was called and selected by the plaintiffs. Yours,

A. D. SPLIVALO,
Attorney for Defendants.

Right or Wrong.

Which will ye have? It does seem as if some folks prefer to have the last condition of the liver rather than the first. They perpetually dose themselves with purgatives totally without virtue as alterative of liver trouble. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the successful candidate for the people's choice, and yet, popular and well known as it is, there are unfortunates who keep on trying the drastic remedies of former days. It is to the intelligent portion of the public that the well known and long tried properties of the Bitters appeal. Reason should be guided by experience in the matter of medication. "The best guide to our feet is the lamp of experience," said a great patriot of the early revolutionary period, and the exclamation is pregnant with truth. For over a third of a century the Bitters daily has met with the endorsement of people suffering from liver complaint, malaria, constipation, rheumatism, debility and troubles accompanied by dyspepsia. Latterly it has declared itself and been thoroughly approved as a remedy for "la grippe."

A Little Girl's Experience in a Lighthouse.

Mr and Mrs. Lot a Trescott are keepers of the Gov Lighthouse at Sand Beach, Mich. and are blessed with a daughter, four years old Last April she was taken down with Measles, followed with a dreadful Cough and turning into a fever. Doctors at home and at Detroit treated her, but in vain, she grew worse rapidly, until she was a mere "handful of bones." Then she cried Dr. King's New Discovery and after the use of two and a half bottles, was completely cured. They say Dr King's New Discovery is worth its weight in gold, yet you may get a trial bottle free at Ed. Wegner's Drug-store.

Board of Supervisors.

WEDNESDAY, September 14th.

The Board of Supervisors met Wednesday pursuant to adjournment, and passed upon a large number of bills against the county which were ordered paid if we except one charge of $5 made by the Sonoma INDEX-TRIBUNE for printing for the County Clerk. [We understand that the man who runs the Board, has boldly asserted that "no bills will be allowed the INDEX-TRIBUNE while he is a member." To which we bow in meek submission.—ED.]

THURSDAY, September 15th.

Contracts for supplies for county farm and hospital were awarded to C. H. Burger for meats, and for groceries and provisions to E. A. Wilson, Geo. F. King, A. Bryant, F. P. Grace, T. Brophy.

It appearing that it is necessary to furnish each precinct with ballot boxes, and five bids being received, Mr. Sales moved that the bid of L. C. Byce, being the lowest and best bid, the contract be awarded to him to furnish the county with fifty-two redwood boxes, stained and varnished, with 20-ounce glass front, as per sample, for $3.50 each delivered on board the cars at Petaluma. So ordered.

It appearing that great emergency exists for the repair of the bridge across the south fork of the Gualala river on the Stewart's Point and Skaggs Springs road, it was resolved to let a contract for said repair without the usual form of advertising, and the contract was accordingly awarded to H. A. Richardson for the sum of $700, the contract price to be paid out of the general fund of the county.

From the reports of the County Auditor and Recorder and County Treasurer the following figures are taken:

From the report of County Physician Boyce the following extracts are made: Number of patients in hospital August 1, 30; number August 31, 37; number admitted, 18; discharged, 9; died, 2; number of persons at county farm August 1, 32; number August 31, 22; admitted, 1; discharged, 9. Under the head of remarks the report sets forth "that the farm has been relieved of several of its most troublesome guests, and is now in good condition; and while the hospital is running well, I will call your attention to the necessity of a thorough renovation of the four main wards at the expense of about $100.

The report of M. M. Speegle, superintendent of county farm, shows the following number of credits: Twenty-five cords of wood for hospital, $112.50; 186 gallons of milk, $37.20; vegetables, $14; apples and pears, $5; hauling, $10; total, $178.70.

FRIDAY, September 16th.

On motion of Mr. Cady, the clerk was authorized to purchase and mail to every voter whose name appears on the Great Register a pamphlet copy of "The Manner of Voting Under the Australian Ballot System."

It appearing from the provisions of the County Government act, as amended March 31, 1891, that it is made the duty of the Board of Supervisors to prescribe the amount in which the following named officers must execute official bonds before entering upon the discharge of their respective offices, Mr. Clark moved that the bonds should be as follows:

Treasurer, $100,000; County Clerk, $25,000; Auditor, $20,000; Sheriff, $50,000; Tax Collector, $50,000; District Attorney, $15,000; Recorder, $10,000; Assessor, $20,000; Surveyor, $10,000; Superintendent of Schools, $5,000; Coroner, $5,000; bonds of Justices of the Peace, in Petaluma and Santa Rosa townships $2,000; all other Justices, $1,000; Constable's bonds, $1,000.

In accordance with the order of the Board of August 2d. P. Monahan having paid into the county treasury $50 in payment of damages to Susan Malone, over whose lands the private road of P. Malone is to pass, and the said Susan Malone having refused to accept the same, Mr. Smith moved that the District Attorney be authorized to institute proceedings against the said Susan Malone to secure the right-of-way. So ordered.

It appearing that the $150 appropriated to replace the bridge over Russian Gulch creek in Ocean township is insufficient, on motion of Mr. Smith $150 more was added to the grignal appropriation.

At 1:30 the Board adjourned until Monday, September 26, at 10:30 A. M., in order to fix the county tax rate as required by law.

BOLD ASSERTIONS.

THE MANLY ACTION OF GERMANY'S GREATEST SCIENTIST.

It is Warmly Indorsed by a Ringing Editorial in a Leading American Journal.

(Med'cal Tribune.)

Professor Rudolph Virchow was seriously ill several months ago. An admirer of his, the owner of a certain proprietary medicine, took occasion to present him with some bottles of his discovery. Virchow recovered, and was certain that he had received much benefit from the remedy. He accordingly addressed a letter to his benefactor, acknowledging the matter and expressing his gratitude. The letter, coming as it did from the most distinguished teacher of pathologic science in Europe, was published and widely read. The North German Medical Association, like similar bodies in America, has its cranks on ethics. They endeavored to call the professor to account for disregarding the code. Virchow regarded the instincts of a gentleman, and the honor that leads a man to render justice, as paramount to the peck-measure ethics of a conceited gang of half fledged medical men. He answered them with hearty contempt, and withdrew from the association. He chose to stand on manliness, and could afford to do so. It was an issue between ethics and a man, and manhood was asserted.

At about the same time the editor of this journal wrote a letter to a gentleman in Western New York regarding the merits of a remedy known as Warner's Safe Cure. The circumstances in the case were as follows: We had frequently been asked by patients if we knew anything about this remedy, and were obliged to answer in the negative. We then began to make inquiries about the remedy, and were surprised at the reports we heard regarding it. We then recommended it in several cases that had resisted all other treatment, and the results were surprising. The albumen rapidly disappeared from the urine and the patients felt greatly improved in health. Feeling satisfied that the compound was a valuable one, and that it could do no possible harm to any one we continued to recommend it, and were surprised at the good results obtained.

After several months' fair trial we did not hesitate to indorse the remedy, believing as we did that it would prove a boon to suffering humanity. We have no reason to regret our action in this particular. We recommend a remedy that has benefited thousands of persons; we have seen its good effects on our own patients after all other medicines have failed, and we are not afraid to say to the public and the profession just what we know of it.

Medical journals of all schools of medicine are filled with advertisements and editorial puffs of proprietary medicines, many of which are worthless. The editors know nothing of their composition or preparation, but have an eye to the money they get for the ra lvertisements. There has been no protest against these things. How, therefore, a certificate based on experiences such as ours, and without compensation, should have greater turpitude, is a problem beyond our capacity. Why can should be fish and another flesh we are not sagacious enough to determine. We leave it for those who care more for the rotten corpse of the old code than for common fairness and common sense.

Those who are eager to find fault will do so. They are heartily welcome to their task. To be sure blows can be given as well as taken, except that some escape because of their contemptible insignificance. We have no ammunition to waste on such. This, however, we will say: No man of common human sensibility, who has the red blood of a mammal, and not the pale, snaky fluid of the lower races, will have the heart to judge our actions severely or to say that we have done aught but what we have always claimed to be our right—to use any remedy that will benefit our patients, without reference to the source from which it comes.

The above able article from the pen of Dr. R. A. Gunn, editor of the Medical Tribune, strongly corroborates the statements already made by the doctor in the public prints regarding the unusual merits of the greatest modern medicine. This preparation, after twelve years of unqualified success, has finally received the commendation and indorsement of the leading members of the medical profession, both in this country and in Europe. Dr. Gunn in his recently published interview, gave his unanswerable reasons for indorsing this great remedy, and it goes without saying that the most distinguished teacher of pathology in the world to-day would be the last to recommend a proprietary article without having the utmost faith in its curative power.

Trout fishing in Sonoma creek is very poor at present. The creek is swarming with carp, a most voracious fish, which gobbles up every trout in sight when the chance presents itself. This may account for the scarcity of trout in that stream and its tributaries.

BATCHELDER ALIMONY CASE.

The State Supreme Court Decides in Favor of the Husband.

Geo. A. Batchelder, formerly of this place, but for the past two years a resident of Napa, under arrest for refusing to pay his divorced wife alimony, has been discharged by the Supreme Court on a writ of habeas corpus. The case has been pending two years. He was imprisoned in January, 1890, under order of the Superior Court of San Francisco, where the divorce proceedings were instituted, for refusing to pay the money. Three months later he took the oath prescribed by section 1148 of the Civil Code and was discharged. Subsequently he was again arrested and ordered confined until he should pay the accured alimony and counsel fees.

The Supreme Court holds that the order of the lower court is invalid so far as it requires payment of counsel fees and alimony, whether permanent or temporary, due prior to the discharge of the prisoner in March.

Mr. Batchelder has many friends in Sonoma, who will rejoice that he is now free from his troubles. His marriage was one of the most miserable failures in the matrimonial line that has ever came under our observation.

A Graveyard Thief.

Sonoma has a graveyard thief. Every now and then for the past three or four years complaint has been made at this office by relatives and friends of deceased persons buried in Mountain Cemetery of flowers and vases being stolen from graves and in more than one instance rare shrubbery and plants have been dug up and carried off by the ghoulish thieves. The latest instance of the desecration of a grave in the above cemetery occurred a few days ago. Eugene Robin about three weeks ago placed a valuable vase containing a boquet of flowers on the grave of his deceased brother. Upon visiting the cemetery a few days ago he discovered that the vase had been stolen and a broken tumbler substituted in its stead, in which had been placed the flowers. Great indignation is expressed over these frequent thefts in Mountain Cemetery, and should the culprit be caught he will receive a lesson that he will not soon forget.

Chemical Works.

E. K. Stevenot reports the movement on foot to erect chemical works in Sonoma to be progressing. Already a number of the moneyed men of Sonoma have signified their willingness to take stock in the enterprise, which it is asserted will pay a handsome dividend on the investment. Every body in Sonoma should take an interest in this matter and if those who have the means are satisfied that the erection of chemical works in our midst will pay they should not hesitate to help the project along. The establishment of the proposed works would give employment at remunerative wages to two or three hundred people. Let us have the works by all means if they can be made to pay a dividend on the investment.

Sad Death.

Carl Victor, the seven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Janson, died at the home of his parents on Second-street West last Thursday morning. The little fellow was attacked with diphtheria in its most malignant form about two months ago and for a time his life was despaired of. He eventually recovered from the disease, but it left him in such a weak state that he was unable to throw off an attack of bronchitis which seized upon him a few days ago and notwithstanding everything was done known to medical skill to save the little fellow's life, he passed wearily away. The funeral took place yesterday, the remains being interred in Mountain Cemetery.

Tokay Grape Crop.

The Tokay grape crop in Sonoma Valley is almost a total failure if we except a few vineyards. Many growers report one-quarter of a crop. The grapes were ruined by the cold nights followed by hot days during the months of July and August.

The Boggs Carriger Murder Case.

Boggs Carriger, charged with the murder of his brother Wm. W. Carriger, will be arraigned before the Superior Court at Santa Rosa, Judge Dougherty presiding, on Monday October 10th.

On Thursday last Tilbron Charles called at the house and found Mr. Jones dead in his bed. He had apparently died asleep without a struggle, as he was lying very naturally, carefully covered by the bed clothing. His eyes were closed and to all appearances he had passed away without awakening.

Mrs. R. Staeubli, of Sebastopol, applied to Sheriff Mulgrew Wednesday morning to arrest her husband. She was considerably agitated at first, but Mr. Mulgrew concluded from her remarks that her husband had assaulted her in a brutal manner. He had a warrant issued for the arrest of Mr. Staeubli and prepared to accompany the irate wife to the scene of her domestic tribulations. While the Sheriff was after his horse District Attorney Burnett and our local reporter dropped in at the office, and the lady told her story to the public prosecutor. Mrs. Staeubli had regained her composure and the offense with which she charged her husband had lost much of its ferociousness. She said the trouble srarted with her little sisters. Her husband began following them around when they came from school Tuesday afternoon, and she had gone up behind him and pushed a bread pan against him in sport. This playful action irritated the husband and he turned around and kicked his wife. She admitted that it was not a very hard kick and that it did not hurt her much. But it was enough, and she told him it would be the last time he should ever treat her with such brutality. With this determination she came to town and called on the Sheriff. She has been married two years and alleges that on previous occasions her lord has slapped her in the face. Mrs. Staeubli is a modest, pretty appearing woman and speaks fair English.—Democrat.

Preservatives for Grapes.

"I was surprised to learn a few days ago," said one gentleman to a companion, "that the grapes we eat at dessert, especially the white varieties, may have been plucked from the vines a month before. A few days ago I went to a fruit store near my home and asked for two pounds of white grapes, incidentally remarking that they were for my little boy, who was sick.

"'Why don't you take one of these 5-pound baskets?' asked the dealer. 'They are somewhat cheaper when bought in such quantities, and besides I will put a preservative on the grapes that, while it will not impair their appearance or taste and is not in the least injurious to the stomach, will keep them for two or three weeks. Taste one of those grapes,' and he pointed to a big basket of fine fruit.

"The grapes were sound and of fine flavor. 'Those grapes you have eaten,' he said, 'have been kept in stock two months, and I can probably keep them as much longer. I do not know what the preservative is composed of. I get it from a big firm of chemists down town, and they guarantee there is nothing injurious in it. I have never tried it on any kind of fruit except grapes, but I guess it would prove just as efficacious on peaches or plums.'"—New York Advertiser.

The Terrible Cou-Gou.

Several writers, among them the eminent Samuel de Champlain, tell awful stories of the work of a superhatural monster that formerly inhabited the islands of the Bay of Chaleur. To the Indians of the Chaleur region this terrible being, which always appeared in the form of a woman, was known as the "gou-gou." As printed the word is usually divided, and pronounced with a quick, guttural sound, not wholly unlike the "goo-goo" of a baby. This monstrous amazonian, the legend tells us, lived on human flesh. She caught Indians by the dozens and stowed them away in pouches at her hips, the pouches being large enough, so an old Indian told Champlain, to hold "fifty ponies."

Hundreds of the Indians living around the bay declared to both Willis and Champlain that they had often seen the horrid monster step from island to island, and that her head was "higher than a cloud." "From what they say," Champlain writes, "I should say that Chaleur is the dwelling place of some devil that torments them in the above named manner."—St. Louis Republic.

The Cashgirls' Friend.

The noon closing of one of the large stores on Sixth avenue compelled me to wait outside for a friend.

In less than ten minutes the crowd changed from shoppers to the shopgirls. How they chattered! How happy they appeared! A half holiday meant a great deal to them.

Presently five little cashgirls came up behind me, and from the giggles and whisperings I learned that one had found a package in the store and had escaped with it undetected.

They speculated as to its possible contents, and finally the finder agreed to "divide" if they would not tell on her, "honest true." So from under her skirts she brought a small parcel.

I confess I, too, was curious to know what it held. The finder of the parcel opened it, and loud shrieks and roars of laughter came from those five young throats as a pair of the smallest size of boys' bathing tights was held up to view.—Cor. New York Recorder.

Men and Piano Playing.

"I can remember," said the old musician as he fumbled sheets of music, "when to see a young man who was not a professional musician playing the piano or the violin was a particularly interesting and unusual spectacle. I mean of course in this country. On the other side it was not considered an effeminate accomplishment, as it was in the United States in the early years of this century, to possess an intimate and practical acquaintance with some musical instrument. The guitar was the only instrument upon which a man could play in those times without subjecting himself to unpleasant criticism. But, bless my soul, everybody plays something nowadays! I have, of a class of twenty-two pupils, seven young men who are really clever piano players; and there are young women who excel as amateur violinists."—Minneapolis Times.

A Matter of Doubt.

A minister in the east said: "My brethren, the collection will now be taken for my expenses for a trip, for I am going away for my health. The more I receive the longer I can stay." The largest collection ever made in that church was taken. And now the question under discussion is whether the size of the collection was a compliment to the preacher or much the reverse.—Louisville Western Recorder.

A Fault in the Treatment.

A certain Irish orator, whose daughter was going to marry Emmett, died of consumption. The day before he died some friends asked him how his cold was. "It ought to be all right," he answered, "for I've been up the entire night practicing on it."—San Francisco Argonaut.

"August Flower"

Perhaps you do not believe these statements concerning Green's August Flower. Well, we can't make you. We can't force conviction into your head or medicine into your throat. We don't want to. The money is yours, and the misery is yours; and until you are willing to believe, and spend the one for the relief of the other, they will stay so. John H. Foster, 1122 Brown Street, Philadelphia, says: "My wife is a little Scotch woman, thirty years of age and of a naturally delicate disposition. For five or six years past she has been suffering from Dyspepsia. She became so bad at last that she could not sit down to a meal but she had to vomit it as soon as she had eaten it. Two bottles of your August Flower have cured her, after many doctors failed. She can now eat anything, and enjoy it; and as for Dyspepsia, she does not know that she ever had it."

PASTOR KOENIG'S TRADE MARK NERVE TONIC

ALAMOSA, COL., Jan., 89. X11

My wife was troubled with nervousness about one year before she took Pastor Koenig's Nerve Tonic, and at that time had very severe attacks of spasm, convulsion, and pains in different parts of the body; when in this state her lower jaws would set violently and set sometimes, bite her tongue, breathe heavily, then short, then seemed to stop entirely, get a wild look in her eyes and falling around, then stop sometimes; it would take two men to hold her in bed otherwise her body would cramp and he so for two hours. She took but two bottles of the Nerve Tonic, which, cured her entirely of all these torments, which myself and wife gladly testify it truly had the desired effect. D. S. M'GILLIS.

A Shorthand Blunder.

One day a lawer dictated a special writ of fieri facias to his shorthand clerk, and, being in a hurry, rushed off to the court with the transcript as soon as it was made, without reading it. When it was presented the dignified judge glanced through it, looked at a certain part of it steadily, and became convulsed with laughter. He then handed the paper back to the lawyer, stating that he was sorry he couldn't grant his petition.

"I think, please the court, that this is according to rule," persisted the attorney.

"Well, this court is unable to do anything for you," replied the judge. "Your request is unreasonable; just take your petition and read it."

The lawyer did so and found that it requested the court to grand "special red fiery faces" to its petitioners.—Exchange.

Pearl Fisheries in the California Gulf.

It is only in the Gulf of California that regular diving gear is employed in connection with the pearl fishery. The beds there were pretty nearly destroyed 150 years ago, when from 300 to 500 pounds of pearls were taken from them yearly. The latter were packed on mules and literally sold by the bushel.—Washington Star.

Male Mortality in New Orleans.

There seems to be something pretty serious the matter with the men of New Orleans. There are 15,000 more women than men there; nevertheless five men die to every four women. The trouble comes between the ages of twenty one and fifty. Between the ages of thirty and fifty the ratio of mortality is nearly two men to one woman. Among whites and blacks the same curious state of things prevails. The doctors cannot explain why it happens so, but it is evident that there is going to be a corner in males in New Orleans unless some one finds out. The excess of women began after the war, and has been increasing ever since, and especially during the last twelve years.—Atlanta Constitution.

NAGLE IN COURT.

In the Justice's Court of Santa Rosa Township, Sonoma County, California.

J. W. RAGSDALE, Plaintiff, vs.
F. G. NAGLE, Defendant.

The plaintiff for cause of action against the defendant, alleges: That on the 16th day of November, 1888, said defendant, F. G. Nagle, received from G. W. Call the sum of one hundred (100) dollars, the property of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau; that of said money said defendant, Nagle, returned to said Bureau the sum of $20 only, and retained, and ever since has retained, the balance of said $100 to-wit, $80, for his own use, and that no part of said $80 has ever been paid; that said Bureau assigned said claim to plaintiff.

For a further and separate cause of action plaintiff alleges: That defendant is indebted to plaintiff in the sum of $80 for money had and received from G. W. Call, November 16th, 1888, for the use and benefit of the Sonoma County Abstract Bureau, which claim has been assigned to the plaintiff, and that no part of the same has ever been paid.

Wherefore, plaintiff prays for a judgment against defendant for the sum of $80 and costs.

RUTLEDGE & PRESSLEY,
Attorneys for Plaintiff.

Dec. 9, 1891, complaint filed, summons issued and served. Dec. 15, default and judgment entered against defendant for $80 and costs. Dec. 16th, Nagle pays judgment.
